

THIS AND THAT

BY GOOSEQUA.

Opinions sometimes bring money:

"There's many a slip betwixt the cup and the lip," but to the drinking man the "slip" is always toward the "lip."

o o o

Some drink to cure a poison; others drink to poison a cure.

o o o

Ray's definition for a unit, a single thing, is a suitable definition to a school teacher. For when matrimony is committed teaching is usually quitted.

o o o

Quitting the teaching profession is like some men quitting chewing tobacco—till there's a chance to begin again.

o o o

Bookishness alone is a mighty poor weapon to tackle this world with, but it's better than nothing.

o o o

If some were to get pay for what they actually do, their present salary would suffer a collapse; others an increase.

o o o

If poor salary makes poor teaching, don't blame the effort but quality of work.

o o o

Decit does go a long way but often deceit gets deseted.

o o o

"Get there" is clothed in the more euphonious word "strenuous," but either is Greek to the mass of laziness.

o o o

Now if some kind dictionary man would coin a word, high sounding and scientific, instead of the old, old word "laziness" it would be the most popular word in English.

o o o

The only bank account some may have is when they mount a clay bank and endeavor to court the thousands underneath the soilless clay.

Letter from Zillah, Washington.

Mr. Editor.—Permit me through your valuable paper to speak a few words to my many friends in "Old Crittenden."

We left there on the 20th of September bearing the assumed name of the "Jacobs Party" composed of the families of S. D. and H. P. Jacobs bound for the west.

After an enjoyable trip of five days travel we arrived at the little city of Toppenish, Yakima county, Wash., and after spending a few days with friends and relatives that we had not seen for years and having enjoyed their kind hospitality we began to seek a place to call "Home." At last we succeeded in renting a cottage house and lot in the little town of Zillah, situated on the north side of Yakima river in the beautiful valley of the Yakima near the boundary of the "Yakima Indian Reservation." The county of Yakima lies in the south central portion of the state. Its area is 5,580 square miles and has a population of over 20,000. Its principal products are fruit, hops, hay and potatoes.

The county is traversed its entire length by the U. P. R. R. and drained its entire length by the Yakima river, has 1500 miles of irrigating ditches, not including laterals, has a record of 315 days of sunshine out of the year. The record for the last ten years shows the mean maximum of temperature to be 77 degrees, the mean minimum to be 37 degrees.

The beautiful valley of Yakima, the garden spot of the state, is a section where intense and diversified farming is the rule. The soil is volcanic ash and very deep and probably capable of producing more to the acre and a greater variety of crops than any other district of some size in the United States. Here all the fruits of the temperate zone flourish in great abundance. The apple, pear, peach, prune, plum, apricot, cherry, grapes and berries of all kinds are extensively grown and hay, hops, spuds and other crops produce an enormous yield. And there is no lack of market as the products of this valley are widely known and appreciated on account of superior quality. As an evidence of the productivity of this valley there has been shipped since May 1st to October 31st from Toppenish alone 1,471 car loads of produce and the rush is still on and the farmers are lamenting the shortage of cars, meanwhile other stations as Wapato, Mabton and North Yakima have a similar shipment. Prices for improved land are high, from $150 up, according to location and improvements, unimproved land from $40 to $70. Wages for labor are good, from $1.50 per day and up, according to the kind.

I think this is a fine country. The climate is exceedingly fine and while you of old Crittenden are experiencing all kinds of changeable weather, we are basking in the sunshine, working in our shirt sleeves, dressed in summer attire with flowers at our feet and breathing the invigorating air as it comes forth from the snow cap peaks of the Cascades which are as visible to us as the Twin-knobs are from the "Hockins Hill."

With pleasure I give you these few items. May THE RECORD have a prosperous New Year and a long life. May it continue its welcome, weekly visits to us in the far west. Yours respectfully,

HARVEY P. JACOBS.

Dora Woodruff Stock Co.

The Dora Woodruff Stock Company, filling an engagement at three nights at the opera house, commencing last night (Thursday, Dec. 15), comes to this place highly recommended. The Cairo (Ill.) Telegram speaks of the company as follows:

"The Woodruff Stock Co. filled a week's engagement at the Cairo Opera House last week and gave entire satisfaction to packed houses each evening. Miss Dora Woodruff is in every sense of the word a comedy sunbeam and is supported by a company of the best dramatic artists."

Review Methods.

There can be little continuity in the treatment of the lessons of the Quarter, save in the case of the first five which concern the history of Elijah. A review which would not include a character study of this great prophet would certainly be defective. A comparison of the characters, methods and distinctive services of the two prophets, Elijah and Elisha, would be interesting and profitable. Let some one prepare such a paper to read to the school.

The prophet, Isaiah, who gives us two of our lessons, should also be given special study. Some one should be selected to prepare a brief paper on the life, character and ministry of this prophet.

Inasmuch as the history of Israel closes with this Quarter's lessons a brief but comprehensive outline study of this kingdom should be traced in such a way as to bring out strikingly the relation of cause and effect; the beginning and the development of the moral and spiritual decline and final destruction.

The lessons on Josiah and Hezekiah may be used to point the contrast between the moral and spiritual condition of two kingdoms and to explain the reason why Israel was destroyed and Judah continued.

The geography of the lessons should not be neglected. As preliminary to the review work in class, or general for all the school, let an outline map of the country be drawn on paper or the blackboard and then mark in the places, and probable places, met with in the lessons as they are named by the scholars.

"Then shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve." "Worship . . . serve the Lord!" Worship involves the attitude of the heart towards God, service the expression of the life. Worship is the heart's storage battery. Service is the dynamo, set in motion by the power within. Worship also is sentiment and testing without result, like stamping stems with incense and waiting train. Worship plus service gives the total of God's requirements of man.

The elements of true worship are faith, submission, aspiration; those of true service are willing obedience and unwavering faithfulness.
